

Local artist designs PEMBA gift to UT

The Physicians Executive MBA class of 2009 commissioned local artist

Earith

Bailey Earith to create an original piece of fiber art to serve as the class gift to UT.

The class, a group of 37 physicians from around the country, wanted a contemporary wall hanging that represented who they are as doctors and reflected their experiences as a class in the UT PEMBA program. The piece was constructed with hand-dyed fabrics and featured photos, hospital logos, favorite saying/catchphrases, surgical instruments and even a palm pilot. The finished work was presented to UT and will become part of the school of business's permanent collection.

Bailey Earith is a professional fiber artist. Her business, Bailey Fiber Art Studio, is located in Farragut but does business worldwide. She creates contemporary fabric pieces for upscale homes and corporations. She has been published in magazines and books for her studio work.
